PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Cardiovascular disease continues to dominate our society and remains the number #1 killer worldwide in both men and women. Approximately one-third of total deaths globally are a result of the various forms of cardiovascular disease. A cardiovascular disease-related event causes a death every minute in the United States; therefore, the field of Cardiovascular Disease in terms of diagnosis and treatment continues to evolve with the final goal of improving the overall care and prognosis of patients suffering from a variety of cardiovascular diseases.

The Top Ten Topics in Clinical Cardiology is poised to help healthcare professionals stay current on new and emerging approaches in the diagnosis, management and treatment of heart disease. A robust agenda combines individual and collective opinions from field expert clinicians and scholars.

PROGRAM GOAL

As a comprehensive medical education conference, this course will offer the latest updates for diagnostic and treatment strategies that assess the risk and treatment of coronary artery disease, congestive heart failure, hypertension, LA appendage closure, mitral valve regurgitation, aortic stenosis, and co-morbid cardiometabolic diseases. The use of case-based reviews and taped case presentations will demonstrate innovative therapeutic techniques aimed at improving patient outcomes and quality of life, as well as lowering morbidity and mortality rates through the management of various conditions.

Target Audience

General Cardiologists,
Interventional Cardiologists,
Internists, Family Practitioners,
Cardiology Fellows, Nurses,
Technicians and other allied health care professionals.

Accreditation

The Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide Continuing Medical Education for physicians.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Looking into the future of what cardiovascular medicine will become over the next few years, the overall goal of this program is to enhance competency by providing its participants with the most up-to-date developments in the diagnosis, treatment and management of cardiovascular disease and to facilitate this transfer of knowledge into practice to improve patient outcomes.

Upon completion of this program, attendees should be able to:

- Interpret the role of noninvasive testing in the diagnosing of CAD and provide prognostic information.
- Acknowledge, through evidence-based results, recent transcatheter mitral valve therapies with special focus on TAVR and MitraClip procedures.
- Recognize the issues pertaining to non-cardiac surgery post DES.
- Incorporate the latest advances within interventional cardiology and their implications in overall patient care, improving interventional outcomes.
